1.0 INTRODUCTION

Cannock Chase Clinical Commissioning Group, South East Staffordshire and Seisdon Peninsula Clinical Commissioning Group and Stafford and Surrounds Clinical Commissioning Group (the CCGs) is committed to delivering a high quality service and therefore recognises the importance of managing unsatisfactory performance in a positive and supportive manner.

In managing unsatisfactory performance it is important to differentiate between unsatisfactory performance due to a lack of ability, skill, knowledge, experience or aptitude, ill-health/disability and unsatisfactory performance due to conduct or negligence.

Where ill health/disability is the reason for unsatisfactory work performance, the CCGs' Attendance Management Policy should be used.

Unsatisfactory performance due to conduct or negligence, where the employee is capable of carrying out their role but their performance is inadequate due to lack of attention, motivation, or misconduct the CCGs' Disciplinary Policy should be used.

This policy will be applied equally to all staff covered by the policy and in accordance with the CCGs' Equality and Diversity Policy.

2.0 SCOPE

This policy applies to all staff employed by the CCGs with the exception of Medical and Dental Staff. Capability issues for Medical and Dental staff should be addressed in line with Maintaining High Professional Standards in the Modern NHS Framework, December 2003.

This policy does not cover the following:

- Poor performance due to ill-health (Attendance Management Policy)
- Poor performance as defined in the Disciplinary Policy

3.0 POLICY STATEMENT

This policy has been developed to provide a framework which will enable managers to identify and address issues of unsatisfactory performance in a fair and consistent manner and to enable the employee to reach the required standard of performance.

The CCGs will identify constructive action which can be taken to resolve capability problems and through this supportive action enable employees to reach an acceptable standard of work where possible.

This policy will provide a fair and consistent procedure leading to redeployment or dismissal of employment where remedial action has been ineffective

4.0 RESPONSIBILITIES

4.1 Responsibility of the CCGs

The responsibility of the provision of an agreed Performance Management Policy and Procedure lies initially with the CCGs.

The CCGs will ensure through the management structure that staff are appropriately trained for the positions they hold.

4.2 Responsibility of Human Resources

To provide training, advice and support to managers/supervisors dealing with matters of unsatisfactory performance.

To provide advice/support to an employee whose performance is giving cause for concern.

To provide advice and support at all stages of the formal procedure.

4.3 Responsibility of Managers

To ensure that they are aware of the policy and how to begin to resolve matters of poor performance in a fair and consistent manner.

To ensure that all employees are made aware of this policy.

To ensure that the standards of performance expected of the employee is fully explained so they know what is expected of them.

To ensure that all employees receive performance reviews.

Where it is identified that an employee is not performing to the required standard, to agree measurable objectives with the employee.

4.4 Responsibility of Employees

Employees must inform their manager and seek support should they feel there are certain competencies within their job that they are not fulfilling.

Where it has been identified that an employee is not performing to the required level it is their responsibility to agree measurable objectives with their manager.

Employees must participate in performance reviews with their manager.

Employees are responsible to continuously develop skills to achieve their maximum potential and, where appropriate, participate in any training or support identified as necessary for satisfactory performance of the role.

5.0 SETTING STANDARDS

On commencement of employment the standards of performance expected of the employee should be fully explained so they know what is expected of them.

This should include:-

- Clear job descriptions and person specifications
- Careful monitoring of workplace induction
- Understanding of the CCGs' corporate objectives and organisational values
- Professional codes of conduct/practice
- Regular discussions between supervisors/managers and employees to ensure that standards are being accurately communicated and maintained

6.0 FACTORS THAT COULD CAUSE POOR PERFORMANCE

The following are examples and are not intended as an exhaustive list:

6.1 Inadequate Selection Methods

When filling a vacancy it is important to ensure that the successful candidate has the ability to carry out the duties of the post. It is therefore important to follow the correct selection procedures as stated in the Recruitment & Selection Policy.

6.2 Inadequate Training

This could occur when a Manager fails to provide adequate induction or ongoing training as required. It could also occur when an employee transfers to another post, and often is not trained to carry out the duties of that post. Particular care is required for employees who lack experience of working life and for disabled employees or employees who become disabled during their employment.

6.3 Working Conditions

The environment in which an individual carries out their duties may be responsible, wholly or in part, for an unsatisfactory level of performance.

6.4 Lack of Understanding of Job Role

Whilst an employee may otherwise be competent, they may fail to fulfil the requirements of the job if these have not been properly communicated to them.

6.5 Work Standards

The standards required of employees should be appropriate and relevant to the post.

6.6 Relationships with Colleagues

Difficult relationships with other colleagues could have a detrimental effect on performance.

6.7 Domestic Circumstances

Factors not directly concerned with work may never the less have a detrimental effect on performance.

6.8 Health Problems/Alcohol & Substance Abuse

This can cause inadequate performance and should be dealt with in the CCGs' Policies specifically dealing with these circumstances, e.g. Attendance Management Policy and Alcohol & Substance Misuse Policy

6.9 Capability

The employee may not possess the necessary competence and may not be re-trainable.

6.10 Conduct

Wilful refusal of a reasonable management instruction or negligence. These should be regarded as misconduct and be dealt with under the CCGs' Disciplinary Policy.

7.0 SUPPORTING STAFF WITH DISABILITIES

The Equality Act 2010 provides that employers have a statutory requirement to give consideration to making a reasonable adjustment to any aspect of work arrangements, or of the premises which have a substantially disadvantageous effect on the disabled person's performance.

Examples of Reasonable Adjustments:

- Make adjustments to premises
- Allocate some of the disabled person's duties to another person
- Transfer to fill an existing vacancy
- Alter working hours
- Assign to a different place of work
- Allow to be absent during working hours for rehabilitation, assessment or treatment
- Arrange for employee to receive training/retraining
- Acquire or modify equipment

While disability is in no way routinely associated with performance problems, managers must consider the possibility that under-performance is the result of a disability. If this is the case, there is a statutory duty to make reasonable adjustments to the working arrangements to help reduce the disadvantage the staff member might otherwise experience. For example, it may be reasonable to provide specialist equipment to assist the staff member or to re-organise work allocation within a team.

Should the manager believe that the underperformance is associated with a suspected disability, they must refer the member of staff to Occupational Health as soon as possible for further support and guidance.

8.0 PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL PROCESS

The appraisal process is a system for regularly reviewing and recording the performance, potential and development needs of an employee. The appraisal will ensure that employees are clear about what is expected of them and how they will be supported. The process is two-way and provides an opportunity to help identify and reveal problems which may be restricting progress and causing poor work performance.

It is a continuous process and not limited to a formal review once a year. It is essential where work performance problems arise they are addressed at the time, rather than waiting for the annual review.

9.0 PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

The key to longer-term improvement in performance is personal development.

The performance appraisal process identifies these needs but Managers must formalise and agree a development plan, which may include formal and/or informal development activities.

The formal stages of this process will be considered during the personal development review process and may impact on incremental pay progression.

10.0 POLICY IN PRACTICE: PROCEDURE

The following procedure is intended as a framework to ensure consistent and fair treatment for all staff.

10.1 Informal Procedure (Monitoring, Coaching, Counselling)

Most matters of unsatisfactory performance can be resolved through a combination of monitoring, coaching and counselling. The initial counselling will not constitute formal action under the capability procedure; however, the employee should be fully aware that counselling is taking place and clear about the nature of the perceived shortfall in their performance.

Where a shortfall in an employee's performance is identified, an initial meeting should be arranged between the supervisor/manager and the employee. The discussions should include:

- a clear explanation of the area/s of weakness causing concern
- identification of any underlying causes
- a clear statement of the standards being set
- timescales for the achievement of the standards
- an explanation of the consequences of failure to achieve standards
- encouragement and assistance to improve
- date for review

Particular attention should be given to the provision of constructive support e.g:

- adequate training
- additional supervision
- coaching or appropriate intervention

Where new tasks are being introduced and are causing difficulties, particular attention should be paid to further training and development needs.

Managers should keep records of any occasions when discussions have taken place, of all the issues raised, agreed actions and timescales and provide a copy for the employee.

During the period of time given to achieve the required level of performance it is important to agree regular reviews to keep the employee informed of their progress.

This informal process must be followed at least once before invoking the formal Capability Procedure.

10.2 Formal Procedure

Where after reasonable opportunity for improvement in line with the informal procedure, performance remains below the required standards, the manager will consider formal action. The employee should be informed of the managers continued concern. Example letters for each stage of the process below can be found in the appendices.

Stage 1

- The manager will write to the employee, identifying the area/s of weakness causing concern, giving reasonable notice of a formal capability meeting in the presence of a Human Resources Representative. This should notify the employee of their right to be accompanied at the meeting.
- At the meeting the manager identifies the area/s of weakness causing concern.
- At the meeting the employee will have the opportunity to state their views and explain any mitigating circumstances.
- The reasons for the shortfall are explored and any remedial action to be taken is identified and an action plan is agreed by both parties that details the improvements required, the targets and timescales, together with a review date.
- The plan should be monitored in line with the timescales agreed (ranging from 1-3 months but not normally exceeding 3 months). However, timescales may be longer or shorter depending on the nature of the employees duties.
- A written record of the meeting will be kept and given to the employee.
- It should not be assumed that the first formal meeting will automatically result in the employee being issued with a 'notification of unsatisfactory performance'.
- Any action taken will be confirmed to the employee within ten working days, setting out the nature of the unsatisfactory performance, any steps necessary to remedy the situation and the timescale for review. If appropriate the letter must state that a 'first notification of unsatisfactory performance' has been issued and describe the likely consequence of a failure to improve performance by the review date.
- The written record will remain on the employees file for 12 months after which it will be removed provided the employee reaches the level of performance required by the review date.
- Any reoccurrence of poor performance during the 12 months, which becomes apparent following monitoring, coaching, counselling may result in further formal action.
- At the end of the review period, a formal capability review meeting will be arranged between the manager and the employee, in the presence of a Human Resources Representative. The employee will be notified of his/her right to be accompanied at this meeting.

- Where the employee has reached the required levels of performance, they should be informed that their current performance has reached the required standard. Support and encouragement should continue to be offered.
- If the employee has failed to reach the required levels of performance within the agreed timescales then the manager should move to stage 2.

Stage 2

If the employee has failed to reach the required levels of performance, the employee will be invited to attend a formal capability meeting which will be chaired by the manager who is the next level above the direct line manager (where possible).

- The manager will write to the employee, identifying the area/s of weakness that are continuing to cause concern, giving reasonable notice of a formal capability hearing in the presence of a Human Resources Representative. This should notify the employee of their right to be accompanied at the meeting.
- At the meeting the employee will have the opportunity to state their views and explain any mitigating circumstances.
- The reasons for the shortfall are explored and any remedial action to be taken by the employee is identified.
- The manager will consider whether further support and training should be provided.
- The manager will discuss with the employee the possibility of:
 - ~ revised duties/hours of work (if available)
 - ~ suitable alternative employment (if available)
 - ~ work at a lower grade for which they are competent (by agreement)
- The CCGs are not obliged to create an alternative post. If it is agreed that the employee is to move into a post that attracts a lower salary, protection of pay and conditions of service will not apply.
- If it is considered that the level of performance is still unsatisfactory the manager will issue a 'final notification of unsatisfactory performance'.
- A review date will be set to assess whether or not the required improvement in performance has taken place within 1 - 3 months depending on the circumstances and availability of training.
- Any action taken will be confirmed to the employee within ten working days, setting out the nature of the unsatisfactory performance, any steps necessary to remedy the situation and the timescale for review. If appropriate the letter must state that a 'final notification of unsatisfactory performance' has been issued and describe the likely consequence of a failure to improve performance by the review date.
- If the employee is aggrieved by the issuing of the 'final notification of unsatisfactory performance' they may raise the matter through the CCGs' Grievance Procedure.
- If the employee has failed to reach the required levels of performance within the agreed timescales then the manager should move to stage 3.

Stage 3

If the employee does not make satisfactory progress by the review date they will be invited to attend a formal capability hearing to consider the continued employment of the employee.

- At this stage a panel consisting of a CCGs' Manager who has not previously been involved in the process with delegated authority and Human Resources Representative shall be convened.
- The employee will be notified of the hearing in writing. The letter will detail the purpose of the hearing; identify the area/s of poor performance and the possible outcome.
- The employee will be notified of their right to be accompanied at the meeting.
- In addition, the employee should be advised in the letter that the manager responsible for monitoring their work performance will attend to give an account of the review process followed and presenting any relevant documentation. Copies should be provided to the employee, prior to the meeting.
- The employee should be advised that they will have the opportunity to present any factors in mitigation.
- The panel will hear from the manager responsible for monitoring their work performance first. The employee will then have an opportunity to put forward any factors in mitigation. The panel will then adjourn to make their decision.
- If no exceptional circumstances are put forward to explain the work performance, the panel should consider whether the employee's employment should be dismissed on the grounds of capability.
- If there is an opportunity at this stage which would allow the employee to transfer to an alternative post the panel may wish to consider offering this as an alternative to dismissal on the grounds of capability. The employee should be placed on the redeployment register for a period of 12 weeks.
- The CCGs are not obliged to create an alternative post. If it is agreed that the employee is to move into a post that attracts a lower salary, protection of pay and conditions of service will not apply.
- If no alternative post is to be offered or the employee refuses any offer of alternative employment, then the employee will be advised that their employment will be dismissed on the grounds of capability.
- The decision of the panel will be confirmed to the employee, in writing, together with the reasons for the dismissal and advising them of their right to appeal against the decision, within ten working days.
- The employee will be advised that they have ten working days from the date of the dismissal letter to appeal against the decision. The appeal must be lodged, in writing, to the Clinical Accountable Officer.

10.3 Right to be Accompanied

Employees have the right to be accompanied at any stage of the Formal Procedure by either an accredited Staff Representative(s) or full-time official(s) of a recognised staff organisation, or by a fellow worker who must be an employee of the CCGs. Where reference is made in the procedure to an "accredited Staff Representative" this should also be taken to mean full-time official as appropriate.

However it would not normally be reasonable for employees to insist on being accompanied by a companion whose presence would prejudice the hearing nor would it be reasonable for an employee to ask to be accompanied by a companion from a remote geographical location if someone suitable and willing was available on site.

The companion should be allowed to address the hearing to present the employee's case, respond on their behalf to any views expressed at the hearing and confer with them during the hearing. The companion does not, however, have the right to answer questions on the employee's behalf, address the hearing if the employee does not wish it, or prevent the employee from explaining their case.

If an employee's companion is unavailable, it is the responsibility of the employee, so long as it is deemed reasonable, to suggest another date which is not more than five working days after the original date of the Hearing or Appeal Hearing.

Employees have no right under this procedure to be accompanied by anyone else (e.g. a spouse, partner, other family member, or legal representative) other than those persons previously referred to.

10.4 Serious Incompetence / Negligence

Where an employee's performance is regarded as serious incompetence / negligence it would be inappropriate to take them through a staged procedure, particularly if the health or safety of patients or other staff is in serious jeopardy or there are serious consequences for the CCGs.

In such cases the employee may be suspended pending a thorough and impartial investigation. Employees should be made aware that their incompetence may lead to their dismissal on grounds of gross incompetence without notice. If gross misconduct/negligence is considered then the CCGs' Disciplinary Policy should be followed.

11.0 APPEAL PROCESS

At each stage of the procedure, (stage 1,2 and 3) the employee has the right of appeal against any decisions made. The appeal should be lodged in writing within ten working days of the date of the letter of confirmation of the action taken to the next appropriate line manager.

12.0 MONITORING

The CCGs will have responsibility to monitor the effectiveness of this policy and review it every three years in conjunction with Human Resources and Trade Union representatives. Where a review is necessary due to legislative change, this will happen immediately. Minor changes may be approved by the Accountable Officer
